

How to apply for FY2024 Price soaring priority support benefit (¥30,000 /Household)

The Price soaring priority support benefit (30,000 yen per household) is a benefit to support households who are exempt from Resident-Tax and have experienced sudden changes in household finances, as prices of electricity, gas, food, and other items continue to soar.

Benefit Amount

¥30,000/household

Period of payment

The payment will started from the Mid. March, 2025 sequentially.

Households eligible for benefits

As of 13th December, 2024, they are registered as the resident of Fuchu City, and all the members of households are non-taxable for per capita levy of resident tax

The following households do not meet the eligibility criteria and will be excluded:

- Households consisting solely of those are dependent on other relatives (including full-time business workers) who are subject to inhabitant tax in FY2024.
Note: Whether an individual is a dependent will be determined based on their tax declaration for FY2024.
- Households with members who have not completed their resident tax declaration for FY2024 and have income equivalent to per capita levy of resident tax
- Households with members who have notified the application of exemption from inhabitant tax under the tax treaty for FY2024.
- Households that have received the Fuchu City Price soaring priority support benefits or similar benefit (30,000 yen) in other municipalities in this fiscal year, or included a head of household who was eligible for such benefits.

Notes: If it is determined after the payment of benefit that the eligibility requirements were not met, or if you are subject to the per capita levy of resident tax for FY2024 due to an amended tax return or other reasons, the benefits need to be returned.
